Dr. Petrosian Joins Columbia OB/GYN Practice

Columbia, MD – Kimberly Moran Turner, MD announced today that Val Petrosian, MD is joining the Columbia OB/GYN practice effective immediately.

Dr. Petrosian, a graduate of the American University of the Caribbean, completed his OB/GYN residency at the University of Maryland Medical Center. During that residency, he was recognized for “excellence in teaching” for his work with medical students. He earned his bachelor of science degree with honors from The Ohio State University.

The addition of Dr. Petrosian to the professional staff at the practice—Dr. Kimberly Turner & Associates, PA—will allow her to continue to accommodate the practice’s growing patient base. While providing a full spectrum of care for patients, Dr. Petrosian specializes in the medical and surgical management of benign conditions of the female reproductive tract. He also enjoys working with patients who have special needs.

In addition to his medical experience, Dr. Petrosian brings his language skills to this growing professional practice in the heart of Howard County’s diverse community. Dr. Petrosian speaks English, Russian, and German. Dr. Turner and Dr. Petrosian believe that it is important to minimize any language barrier between patients and physicians, so Dr. Petrosian’s language skills will be welcomed, and will pave the way for more Russian or German-speaking women to seek care at the practice.

Dr. Petrosian is a resident of Halethorpe, MD.

The OB/GYN practice of Kimberly Turner, MD & Associates opened in 2005. The practice is based in the Medical Arts Building, adjacent to Howard County Hospital.
